Screen printing is a printing technique whereby a mesh is used to transfer ink onto a substrate, except in areas made impermeable to the ink by a blocking stencil. Basically, it is the process of using a mesh-based stencil to apply ink onto a substrate, whether it be T-shirts, posters, stickers, vinyl, wood, or other material.

A Material to be marbled, such as paper, cloth, hide or wood, which is soaks up water well. A kitchen pan larger than the material to be marbled. Paper towels, newspapers. Something to stir the water surface [like a paint brush]

Step 1

Use a clean pan. Water should be 1 to 2 inches deep. If there is dust or foreign matter on the surface, spread a newspaper sheet on the surface and lift it off. Have material to be marbled close at hand.

Step 2

If you have the marbling set (Item No. 404007). Use the "float paper" included with the set. (Brushes not included in this set.) Tear off a circle of float paper, submerge it with a brush or suitable tool. When the paper rises to the top, center it to the pan and gently one drop of ink from the tube directly on the center of float paper. The ink will spread to the water surface. Continue to apply desired colors to the float paper.

NOTE: Be sure to drop ink GENTLY on the float paper. If ink contacts the water directly, the color will sink to the bottom of the pan. When float paper nears the edge of the pan, gently move in back to the center with the brush. DO NOT use your finger, as blank spots in the design. (see design idea No. 1 if you purposely desire blank spaces.)

If you have the "Saeki Marbling Set" (Item No. 404006), use the brushes which come with the set. (No float paper included with this set.) Put a small amount of ink in a side dish. Take up plenty of ink with a brush and GENTLY lower the brush so that its tip lightly touches the water surface. Do not replace unused ink in the bottle. If you wish, you can use your own brushes and do this technique with the "Standard Marbling Set".

Saeki Marbling Set

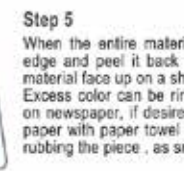

Step 3

To create designs, gently stir the ink on the surface with a brush or similar tool. You can also blow or fan the color around to create a pattern.

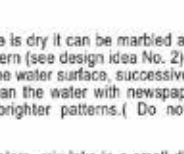

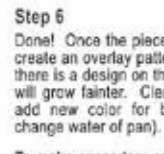

Step 4

Pick up the material to be marbled (do not create a breeze). Starting with one end, gently lay the material on the surface of water where the color pattern is. Do not allow air pockets. If the material is cylindrical, gently rotate for continuous color; if the material is spherical or box-like, use a deep pan, and lower the entire object to the pan bottom. This allows the entire object to the pan bottom, and it to be marbled at once.

Step 5

When the entire material is soaked with water, gently lift by one edge and peel it back from the water surface. Place the marbled material face up on a sheet of newspaper. Excess color can be rinsed off under running water before placing on newspaper, if desired. Cover the entire surface of the marbled paper with paper towel to remove excess water. Avoid touching or rubbing the piece, as smearing can result.

Step 6

Done! Once the piece is dry it can be marbled again to create an overlay pattern (see design idea No. 2). When there is a design on the water surface, successive prints will grow fainter. Clean the water with newspaper and add new color for brighter patterns. (Do not need change water of pan).

To make secondary colors, mix inks in a small dish and apply them to surface with a brush. To darken colors, simply use more ink. To lighten the color of the color or marbling on the colored paper, use PENEWHITE (sold separately).
